

Abstract

According to the present invention, there provided a wet-type compacting method of powder using a solvent, wherein homogeneity of a compact is kept while 5 generating no problem during each process and excellent plasticity and /or strength are applied to the compact, and if a sintering process follows a compacting process, sintering characteristics are improved.